MILITARY ORDER BLOCKS ASSEMBLY OF LEGISLATORS AT OKLAHOMA CITY

GOVERNMENT NOT MIXED IN STATE MILITARY CAUSE

Federal Authorities Keep Out of Muddled Affairs in Oklahoma.

HANDS OFF POLICY
Walton Informed Federal Building Not Open for Legislative Meet.

(By the Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—Should members of the Oklahoma legislature failing to get an entrance to the state capitol building attempt to meet today for their proposed special session in the federal building at Oklahoma City, they will find the doors closed to them by orders of the federal government. This decision was reached last night in response to Gov. Walton's appeal to President Coolidge and Attorney General Daugherty to prevent the session from being held in the federal building. A telegraphic dispatch from Secretary Slamp said that use of the federal building "for purposes other than business of the United States government is contrary to regulations" and was expected to stand today as the explanation of the government's position.

The government's action was seen as another instance of the "hands off" policy to which the Washington officials have adhered from the first in declining to involve the federal government in the Oklahoma situation in any way. The war department had previously taken the position when appealed to by opponents of Walton to prevent the first mobilization of the state military forces that it had no authority over the national guard of the state in such a situation.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 26.—Assistant Postmaster of Oklahoma City notified Representative McBee that he had received instructions from the postmaster general that the postoffice building could not be used for any business other than governmental.

Mr. McBee assured him that the legislators had never "thought of using the federal building for the session."

Legislative headquarters in a downtown hotel were emptied at 10:15 o'clock, the house members dispersing to meet later in the capitol.

"PRINCESS PETROLIA" CORONATION AT TULSA

TULSA, Okla., Sept. 26.—Plans for a gathering here of oil interests to be known as the International Petroleum exposition and congress, at which discussion of every phase of the petroleum industry will be interspersed with exhibits of educational value and recreational features, are being rapidly concluded by committees of local oil men. The exposition and congress will open October 8 for one week.

Governors of 18 oil producing states, cabinet members and heads of government departments at Washington have been invited. Oil men from every state in the union and a number of foreign countries have indicated they will be here. The exposition will bring together ten associations, eight of which are definitely engaged in various branches of the oil business. Each association will hold a convention.

Three full-sized drill rigs, one cable tool, one rotary and one diamond core will be in operation during the week. The plans call also for a complete miniature refinery, a working model of an absorption gasoline plant and a model tube and tank racking unit. Model tank steamers, tank cars and air tight steel tanks have been promised.

Entertainment will include parades and pageants in the court of King Petroleum, concluding with the coronation of "Princess Petrolia" at the end of the exposition.

Educational and historical phases of the industry will be emphasized in the display. Equipment used in the world's first oil well, drilled in 1859 by Col. E. L. Drake, will be sent from Bradford, Penn. Thomas Galey of Independence, Kans., plans to send tools used in the Mid-Continent field's first wildcat well near Neodasha, Kans.

Oklahoma Sets Precedent

(By the Associated Press)
OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 26.—Oklahomans will witness today a scene unprecedented in the history of the nation—an attempt of the lower house of their state legislature to meet in defiance of military power brought to bear by Gov. J. C. Walton.

It is the day for action; that deeds will replace threats and counter threats hurled by the opposing forces through the press.

Noon is the hour set for the showdown.

Out of the maelstrom of public opinion there is no picturing of an inevitable clash between national guardsmen and troops posted in the house chamber of the determined solons bent on impeaching the governor for alleged misuse of his official prerogatives. More sober observers foresee a peaceful meeting between the opposing forces without violence and without bloodshed.

Soldiers at Capital.

The ring of steel upon steel; sharp crack of rifle sounding of the corridors of the capitol will not be heard if the plans of the legislators are followed. No force will be exercised should admittance be denied the legislators. They expect to go quietly to the capitol and as quietly leave once they find the way barred. They have announced that they will attempt no force. The governor has ordered the guard to "shoot and shoot to kill, if necessary to prevent the assembly." Court action will be their only step and Gov. Walton says he will welcome a legal test of his actions.

Early today 60 members of the house had signed the call and predictions were made that at least a dozen more names would be added before noon. Fifty-four constitute a majority of the house.

At least eight other members of the house were listed by observers as favorable to Gov. Walton seven were considered doubtful, and no opinions had been obtained from nine others.

With the meeting in the capitol almost sure to be prevented, it is expected that the legislature will attempt to gather elsewhere in the city later and compel the military authorities to arrest them under the governor's martial law order barring "unlawful assemblies," and this will pave the way for proceedings either in United States district court or the state supreme court to determine the legal status of the session.

WALTER W. HEAD
(By the Associated Press)
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 26.—Walter W. Head of Omaha, Nebraska, was elected president of the American Bankers Association today. William E. Knott of New York was elected first vice-president and Oscar Wells of Birmingham, Alabama, second vice-president.

ROFF, Sept. 26.—(Special)—W. O. Pratt, captain of the local unit of the Oklahoma National Guard, has returned from Tulsa where he served on the Military Commission in the capacity of secretary.

"When I left Tulsa there had been returned sixty indictments in connection with the military investigations there," Captain Pratt said today, "but in my opinion not one of them will stand up. The evidence in nearly all cases is not sufficient to convict, and I also believe that the courts will throw out most of the evidence that was obtained on the ground of its being obtained in an illegal manner."

Captain Pratt was in Oklahoma City Wednesday, but had little to say in reference to the meeting of the state legislature. He said members of the house were not talking but were going about their business in a methodical manner.

Among those that deserve special mention are the College girls that assisted with serving the meals. ## GRAND JURY IS AGAIN WAITING

Investigators Again Halted in Probe of Conditions in Pontotoc County.

Outside forces again halted the probe of the Pontotoc county grand jury.

From within the barred chambers in the county court building, came the demand that another member of the investigating party be released to answer the summons of illness.

W. Vandergriff, a juror of the investigating body of twelve, was called to his home late yesterday afternoon upon notice of illness of his small child. Today, death counted as another jinx to the functioning of the grand jury, ed away during the night.

The work of the jury was halted today to await a further announcement of County Attorney J. W. Dean for the future activity of the grand jury.

It was intimated that the jury would be recessed until after the Vandergriff burial since continuance of the investigation with a juror in Vandergriff's place would necessitate the reviewing of the testimony taken before the jury, which had been intermittently in session since September 12.

Witnesses subpoenaed for testimony before the jury today, were still awaiting the action of the jury and were lounging around in the hallway of the court building.

The delay caused by the death of the Vandergriff child is to four time the grand jury has been forced to halt since it bloomed into session. The probe of county conditions was halted two times by illness of jurors and once by the heavy rains which made roads impassable and prevented jurors from reaching here.

GERMAN OFFICIALS DECLARE POVERTY FORCES ACTION

BERLIN, Sept. 26.—President Ebert and Chancellor Stresemann announced in a formal proclamation today that the German government had been compelled through necessity to end the Ruhr battle. Adherence to passive resistance, said the document, would have brought on the economic collapse of Germany consequently threatening the livelihood of the German people.

The following committees have been appointed to carry out the work that has been outlined: M. C. Wilson, A. A. Lucas and R. L. Holcombe, committee to look into the possibility of getting a broom factory located in Ada; R. W. Simpson, Tom D. McKewen and W. D. ## MILITARY OCCUPATION OF CAPITOL COMPLETE

(By the Associated Press)
STATE CAPITOL, Oklahoma City, Sept. 26.—Military occupation of the state capitol building intended to prevent the scheduled convening of the extra session of the lower house of the state legislature at noon had been completed at 9:30 o'clock. It was estimated that approximately 100 guardsmen were in the buildings. Every corridor, every outside entrance and all driveways in the vicinity were being patrolled.

Every one entering the building was challenged. Attaches of the building assisted guards in identifying regular employees and state officials. Newspaper men were required to present credentials signed by Gov. J. C. Walton. Military headquarters had been established on the first floor rotunda.

The house chamber is on the fourth floor. All the capitol grounds were kept clear by the military and no cars were allowed to enter the driveways leading to the building and usual parking places were deserted.

M'Bees Urges Solons Against Display of Fight at Military

(By the Associated Press)
OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 26.—A statement warning house members not to carry to the capitol building "any weapon, even so small as a pen knife," was issued this morning by W. D. McBee, leader in the special session program, to legislators gathering for the march on the capitol at noon. McBee declared there "must not be the least thing provocative in our attitude."

McBee said that final plans provided for the house members to go to the capitol singly. He said the first meeting place would be on the fourth floor of the building at the doors of the house chamber.

LEGISLATORS BARRED FROM HOUSE CHAMBER AT CAPITOL; KEY READS ORDER OF WALTON

Key Informs Solon Assembly Dispersed as a Legislature, Not Individuals; Proceed to Caucus.

(By the Associated Press)
OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 26.—The "rabble legislators" were halted by the military at noon today when they attempted to convene a special session of the lower house to seek impeachment of Governor J. C. Walton.

The order was as follows: "Pursuant to a special executive military order issued by Gov. J. C. Walton of Oklahoma and commander-in-chief of military forces of said state addressed to the adjutant general forbidding the gathering or assembling of any pretended session of any or all members of the Oklahoma legislature at the state house in Oklahoma City at 12 o'clock noon, September 26, 1923, or at any time or place within the state during the period of unrest, it becomes my duty by action of the adjutant general to enforce the provisions of the governor's order; Now, therefore, I, William S. Key, as military commander of the district of Oklahoma county, forbid this attempted meeting and direct that you disperse accordingly."

When Colonel Key had completed his reading, D. A. Stovall of Hugo, representative from Choctaw county asked the military commander if he "had the full military forces of the state behind him." Colonel Key made no reply.

W. E. Disney, representative from Muskogee county, then asked if they were being dispersed as a "legislature or as individuals."

"You are being dispersed as a legislature," Col. Key responded.

The doors of the house chamber never were opened and no one except the military approached nearer than 20 feet.

House members left the capitol almost in a body for their caucus headquarters in a downtown hotel.

SYSTEM OF ARBITRATION SETTLES MANY DISPUTES

CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—Satisfactory settlements were reached in a large majority of the cases of grievances and controversial questions arising under the employe representation plan of the Pennsylvania Railroad system for the first half of 1923. This was accomplished at conferences between the local officers and representatives of the employes without recourse to any higher authority, according to a report made by the Northwestern Region headquarters of the system.

"During this period a total of 3,066 cases were taken up with officers below division superintendents," the report says. "Although appeal is provided for to superintendents, general superintendents, general managers, and finally to appoint reviewing committee equally representative of management and employe, the number of cases carried to the general manager totaled 223 and those reaching the reviewing committee, 84."

"Of the controversial questions taken up originally or on appeal with the local officers, superintendents, general superintendents, general managers, almost half were adjusted or compromised in favor of employes. Of cases appealed to the reviewing committee, about half were decided in favor of the management."

The Pennsylvania plan was formulated and established by joint action of the management and employes about two and one-half years ago. The report concludes that under its operation local settlement of disputes has reached a new high level of success.

NOTICE MASONS

Work tonight on Entered Apprentice Degree. Members are urged to attend. Visitors welcome.—M. O. Matthews, W. M.

Blocked at Hotel
More than 200 persons witnessed the scene as members of the legislature went from the capitol to the headquarters at a local hotel. They were met by about 10 of the governor's armed operatives in civilian clothes who informed them there could be no session of the house of representatives in the hotel. Several leaders left immediately for another hotel.

"We have met the enemy and are temporarily theirs, but the meeting of the legislature has just started," W. D. McBee leader of the special session call, declared after the attempt at the capitol failed.

W. E. Disney, representative from Muskogee county, declared "the legislators will be in Oklahoma City three months."

A meeting of the house legal committee was in progress at a downtown hotel within an hour after the legislators were dispersed.

It was indicated that a statement would be forthcoming later in the day.

The National Essay Contest of the American Legion this year has for the subject "Why America Should Prohibit Immigration for Five Years." National prizes of $750, $500, and $250 are offered for the first, second and third prize winning essays, the money to be used for scholarship in colleges selected by the winners. In addition there will be given in each state the following prizes: 1st, silver medal; 2nd, bronze medal; 3rd, certificate of merit.

The contest is open to all boys and girls between twelve and eighteen years of age, inclusive. Essays must be submitted to the county superintendent of schools by midnight October 12. Complete information, rules, etc., may be learned from the County Superintendent or any Legion Post. Details are set out on page 16 of the American Legion Weekly of September 14.

Meyer Shell Post No. 92, of Alva, sent a check for $100 to be applied on the Overseas Graves Endowment Fund last week. E. W. Marland, Ponca City, sent a check for $100 the week before. Oklahoma now has raised approximately $3700 of her quota of $4194. The Fund will guarantee the decoration of 32,000 overseas graves of war veterans each Memorial Day in the future. The Legion hopes to raise the quota before the National Convention October 15-19.

Contributions are being accepted from the general public as well as from Legion Posts. Checks should be made payable to the National Treasurer, American Legion and sent to Department Headquarters, American Legion, in the State Capitol, Oklahoma City, from where a receipt will be issued.

A temporary injunction was granted by the District Court of Oklahoma County last week, against holding the election on October 2 on any of the five proposed measures, including the state bonus measure. The suit was filed by the attorney general at the instance of the governor to test the legality of actions of the legislature in passing the five bills, and the legality of the steps taken by the governor to call the election. Appeal was immediately made to the supreme court where the American Legion appears "as a friend of the court." September 20 and argued the legality of the bonus measure, arrangements being made by Cody Fowler, Oklahoma City, Department Commander, and R. C. Brown, Watonga, Department Judge Advocate. John Halley of Oklahoma City, and Wm. L. Eagleton, of Tulsa made the argument for the Legion. The Supreme Court had not handed down a decision on September 24. It was contended by R. L. Davidson, Tulsa, that none of the measures could be voted on October 2nd the bonus measure in particular, because the legislature did not set a specific date for calling the election.

Indian costumes have been ordered by the Legion band of Donaldson-Walker Post No. 108 of Cushing for the trip to the Legion National Convention at San Francisco to be held October 15-19. The Cushing band is the official band of the Oklahoma department and their appearance in the parade in Indian costumes will be a novelty, and will advertise the Oklahoma delegation. "The Golden Gate is open; San Francisco knows how." That's the word sent by the National Convention Committee of the Coastal state. Former Gen. Hunter Liggett is chairman of the committee and expects to show some of his former "buddies" a good time. The Oklahoma delegation will leave Denver on a special train at about 8:15 a. m. October 12, going by way of Pueblo, the Royal Gorge and Salt Lake City. Blanks for reserving hotel reservations have been sent to each Post Adjutant through whom they must be made. If enough Oklahoma Legionnaires indicate immediately to post adjutants their desire to ride on a special car either from Oklahoma City, Okmulgee or Tulsa, the car will probably be run from those points to the special train from Denver.

Reduced fare certificates for the trip to the Legion National Convention at San Francisco October 15-19, have been sent to Post Adjutants. The railroads grant the reduced rate of a one-way fare for the round trip only to members of the American Legion, the Legion Auxiliary and to widows of deceased legion members. The person using the certificate must sign it in the presence of the local ticket agent, buying the round trip ticket, then selection one of several routes for the return. Tickets are on sale from October 4 to 13 inclusive. Traveler must reach return destination by midnight of November 15, allowing him a thirty day vacation in California. Stop-over privileges going and coming are allowed at points desired.

MEXICAN REVOLT DAMAGE CLAIMS PASS $250,000,000

(By the Associated Press)
MEXICO CITY, Sept. 26.—Claims for damages to foreign property resulting from the Mexican revolution already filed with the National Claims Commission total more than $250,000,000 according to the commission's last report.

Should a revolutionary claims convention be adopted after resumption of diplomatic relations between the United States and Mexico as proposed in the understanding reached at the pre-recognition conference, this amount will be enormously increased as numerous American and other foreign claims have not yet been filed with the national commission, but are held up for settlement through diplomatic channels.

COUNCIL OF AMBASSADORS REACH INDEMNITY DECISION

(By the Associated Press)
PARIS, Sept. 26.—The council of ambassadors today reached a decision on the question of the payment of 50,000,000 lire by Greece to Italy. The decision will be kept secret until Greece can be notified. It is understood, however, that the council found that Greece had been dilatory in seeking to apprehend the perpetrators of the Janina crime and that the money was payable immediately.

FINGER READING MORE THRILLING THAN SIGHT

LOUISVILLE, Sept. 25.—Laborious as finger reading may appear, it possesses all the delights and charms that sight reading gives, and perhaps it has even an added thrill because greater concentration is possible. In the opinion of Miss Susan B. Merwin, secretary for the American Printing House for the Blind, Miss Merwin is actively engaged in the work at the printing plant here, which is the largest establishment of its kind in the world. The embossed book, according to Miss Merwin, is the cornerstone of the education of the blind. The books of the American Printing House for the Blind go to libraries throughout this country, to the Philippines, Hawaii and other distant parts of the world.

The federal government yearly gives $50,000 toward the upkeep of the printing institution. In addition to text books, the printing house turns out the best in literature and music, with a considerable supply of current fiction.

Through the co-operation of the American Bible Society and other organizations, the Bible is made available to the blind in several kinds of embossed print. The embossed books are necessarily large and cumbersome. The New Testament in Revised Braille consist of seven 12 by 14 inch volumes. The Revised Braille will become after a time the one universal uniform system in use by all blind readers, according to Miss Merwin, who has made an extensive study of all systems.

The production of embossed books is a costly process, Miss Merwin says, because of the unusual labor involved and the comparatively small number of copies required.

PAWNEE ROCK SHAFT MARKS PIONEER PATH

(By the Associated Press)
TOPEKA, Kan., Sept. 26.—In their campaign to place permanent markers along the routes of the pioneer wagon trains through Kansas, the women's organizations of Kansas selected as the site for the most elaborate monument of all, the historic Pawnee Rock. It was here, historians declare, that the most bloody battles with Indians occurred in the old days of the Santa Fe Trail, which passes within a quarter of a mile of the rocky eminence.

On the crest of the outcropping of reddish, volcanic rock which served as a natural look-out for the Pawnee Indians in their last stand against the whites' invasion, a granite shaft, 40 feet in height, has been erected. In bold lettering at the base are the words "Pawnee Rock" and just above is an immense buffalo head, engraved in relief on the shaft, and the inscription:

"In honor of the brave men and women who passing over the Old Santa Fe Trail endured the hardships of frontier life and blazed the path of civilization for posterity."

It was through the efforts of women's organizations that a tract of about five acres was donated to the state as a park by Benjamin P.

Farmers' Column

By Byron Norrell

When it comes to estimating the cotton crop of Pontotoc county there is a wide divergence of opinion. No two men have same idea and it will only be after the season closes that one can form an accurate opinion.

In a short trip out of town a day or two ago I noticed some feed crops that are doing fine. Since the August rains they have put out wonderfully and their owners will have plenty of roughness for their stock this winter. I also noticed some small grain fields that looked fine, having come up to a good stand and with plenty of moisture to keep them going for a long time.

Cotton is beginning to come in rapidly now and with a few more days of sunshine the gins will all be running to capacity. The five days rain of last week put an end to picking for the time being and gave the crop quite a back-set. Leaf worms are still busy and there will be no top crop, but this may be the means of keeping down the boll weevil next year, since there will be no squares for the weevils to raise a fall crop of insects to go through the winter. There will not be so many to go into winter quarters and this means fewer in the spring.

Boy Scout News

By Harry Miller

Ada scouts of troops No. 1, 3 and 10 are scheduled to go to Horseshoe ranch this coming Friday. Through the kindness of Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Norris these scouts will be given the opportunity of having at their disposal all of the ample and commodious conveniences of this beautiful summer home. Each scout will be required to cook his own meat over the big barbecue pit, to bake his own potatoes in the hot ashly coals, and to take many of such outdoor scout tests as they will be assigned different scouts' tests to look after. At night if it is chilly a fire will be built in the large fireplace and perhaps Mr. Bill Coffman will tell his famous hunting and snake stories and he has just about promised to stay all night with the scouts and make biscuits for them for breakfast. Each scout will be required to be on his very best behavior. The following men will most probably go on this trip: Prof. Oscar Kimbrough, D. T. Bradshaw, W. J. Coffman, Vernon Rollow, Mr. Jordan, Richard Walker Simpson Jr., D. T. Bradshaw, Frank Evans and Harry W. Miller. All the scouts and men will leave not later than 3:30 Friday afternoon and through the kindness of Superintendent J. E. Hickman every scout who has a grade of 90 in scholarship and deportment from Wednesday morning to Friday afternoon will be excused to go at 2:30 Friday afternoon.

The Lawrence boy scouts under Wesley Carr will probably come to the same place on a hike.

SOCIAL NEWS DELAYED FROM ARCTIC CIRCLE

(By the Associated Press)

NARVIK, Norway, Aug. 24.—Never ask a Laplander how many reindeer he owns, is the initial bit of advice which Dr. W. H. Gantt, of Baltimore, has to offer travelers who wander off the beaten path and invade the primitive territory occupied by the Laplanders. This question is equal to asking an American the size of his salary, or the extent of his holdings in stocks and bonds. Riches with the Laps are measured in reindeer. Some few of them, the Henry Fords of the Arctic circle, have as many as 3,000 animals, but they dislike talking about their wealth.

Sweden has protected the Laps against invasion and exempted them from taxation, so they are able to carry on their life in Northern Sweden much as their ancestors did centuries ago. Their villages are extremely primitive and mobile. Families follow their flocks into the mountains in the summer and wander again into the lowlands in the winter.

One elderly Laplander told Dr. Gantt with great pride that he has a son living in America who recently eloped with an extremely wealthy girl and married her. The young Laplander was serving as chauffeur when he and his employer's daughter became enamored of each other and found an accommodating justice of the peace before the angry father caught up with them.

SWEDEN'S "ARTIST PRINCE" GIVES VASE TO HONOR SAINT

STOCKHOLM.—A handsome silver vase, designed and wrought by Prince Eugene, brother of King Gustav, was the contribution of Sweden's "Artist Prince" to the recent commemorative services for St. Bridget, Sweden's first great international figure. The services held, in the ancient town of Vadstena, home of St. Bridget and seat of the Brigittine convent she founded, attracted wide attention.

Tributes were paid to the religious leader's memory by Selma Lagerlof, greatest of Sweden's women novelists and Dr. Nathan Soderblom, Lutheran Archbishop of Sweden. St. Bridget, or Birgitta, was born in Sweden in 1303, of noble family. On the death of her husband, she turned to religious service and founded the famous convent. Her books of prophecies and revelations are Swedish classics.

LANE SCORES IN NEW COMEDY FILM

A mirth provoking five-reel comedy opens today at the American theatre, starring Lupino Lane in his latest William Fox picture, "A Friendly Husband." This is Lane's first appearance in a special, but we hope it won't be his last. There is originality, clean, wholesome comedy speeding along to a "zippy" end with chases and burly outlaws and Lupino skipping with monkey agility up trees, swinging over to others and slipping through amazingly small loopholes.

Lane is the sober looking comedian last seen in a two-reeler called "The Pirate." In his new five-reeler, the comedian has more opportunity to show his novel comedy methods. We roared at the hunting scene when he flees back to his party to gasp a lion is chasing him, and they all shake and turn to see a composed little rabbit staring up at them.

"A Friendly Husband," as you probably got from the title, is chockful of unexpected laughs. It has been excellently cast, the mother-in-law—"a submarine in any sea of matrimony"—provokes laughter from the minute she comes into the action. Eva Thatcher plays this role with polished finesse. The "Friendly Husband's" wife, Tootsie, is played by Alberta Vaughn, a slim, vivacious girl, whose kiss inspires the romping Lane to mighty deeds. With a party of some odd eight people the fun begins when they motor to the woods and start the life of campers. To Lupino Lane goes the credit for the real action and the big laughs. Even when he is not in the action, his deft touch can be discerned. Don't miss "A Friendly Husband," if you enjoy a real laugh.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

NOTHING TO FEAR—Thou son of man, be not afraid. Ez. 2.

NEW LEADERS NECESSARY.

Oklahoma must have new leaders. The Governor and his bunch have been discredited. Were one inclined to overlook his trampling the constitution under foot, his attempt to thwart the members of the legislature, his calling out the militia without any reason, his order to shoot to kill peaceful citizens in the discharge of their sworn duty, and a score of more acts which indicate he is either an ignoramus or a would-be king, there still remains one unpardonable sin. He has turned more crooks out of the penitentiary since he has been in office than all the courts of the state can put back in the same length of time.

The Governor makes a great fuss about the suffering of the families of the most vicious criminals this state has ever seen. He turns these out. It is noticeably apparent that he does not turn out the poor fellow who has no money and was sent up for a minor offense. In almost every case the pardoned criminal either has money or the money is available from friends or relatives.

This is not saying that the Governor gets any of the money and we would not for a moment leave that impression. It does seem, however, that some one must use a part of it. At least, it seems strange that so many who are able to raise money have so little trouble in getting out. Just a question of paying a man with a pull.

Today there is starting a campaign which will mean new leaders will be chosen. And these new leaders will come from the men who are able to forget present dangers, present personal sacrifices in order to correct the evils that exist. A new day is necessary and new leaders will be chosen for that day.

THE MILITARY DICTATORSHIP.

The high handed act of the governor in preventing the gathering of the lower house members is without a parallel in the history of the United States. It takes one back to the days when Napoleon drove the council of 500 from their chamber at the point of the bayonet or when Charles I invaded the halls of the British parliament in search of enemies he intended to arrest. Never before in the history of this country has a governor made himself a military dictator and assumed the powers of a czar of Russia. At this time he is exercising as much power as did any despot of Europe or of the Latin-American countries where dictatorships flourish. When the constitution of Oklahoma was framed its authors sought to throw every safeguard about the liberties of the people but Walton has trampled under foot everything that stood in his way.

His bombastic talk about the guard being ordered to shoot to kill if it was necessary to disperse the legislators is disgusting in the extreme. From the beginning house members declared they had no intention of using force, relying on the courts and legal methods to gain their point, hence all this bluster was certainly very ill-timed. There is but one issue before the people now—is Oklahoma to be under the rule of an irresponsible dictatorship or is it to be governed according to the constitution?

The money question is one that an ordinary mind finds it hard to grasp. Back in the '90's when gold was leaving this country by the boatload the general depression and hard times were ascribed to this cause and it was proposed to remedy the situation by re-establishing silver as a money metal. Now some of the biggest bankers of the country are proclaiming that we have too much gold for our own good and that this is one cause for high prices. No one has yet figured out just where the dividing line should be drawn and how to hold the balance when that line has been reached.

Lieutenant Governor Ed Trapp is one man in the state who has held his tongue during the turmoil of the past few weeks. He has not uttered a sound and has given no sort of intimation of whether or not he considers the special session either legal or necessary. Trapp's eloquent silence is commended to others as a good pattern by which to be guided. Certainly Trapp will have nothing to take back, deny, explain, or apologize for later on.

Senator Carlock of Ardmore says that purchasers of deficiency certificates issued by the governor are taking quite a bit of risk. In times past quite a few of these have been turned down when the legislature met and refused to make an appropriation covering them, the holders losing every cent. In other words, since the legislature has the final word in the matter, the holder of such a certificate is taking some risk.

Al Jennings will have to try his hand again. His "Beating Back" has been out-fictioned. There are many stories of things in Oklahoma today with far more fiction in them than Al ever dared to entwine into this romance.

"The Story of Fred Dennis" can now take its place by the side of "The Story of Tulsa" as one of the leading short stories of the season.

THE COWBOY PRINCE

Meeting Violence With Violence.

(Presbyterian Advance (Nashville))
People who believe in public safety through the orderly administration of government will sympathize with Governor Walton of Oklahoma in his determination to put an end to lawless violence in that state. It is doubtful, however, whether many will sympathize with his methods. In some ways, his methods are about as violent as those of the people against whom his campaign is directed. He announced that he would declare martial law in Muskogee unless the "exalted cyclops" of the Ku Klux Klan at that place resigned, and threatened a stricter application of military law in Tulsa if his demand for the resignation of certain public officials, said to be members of the Klan, was not met within a few days. He established a military censor in the office of the Tulsa Tribune, which he charged with agitation against his inquiry into Klan activities.

All this appears pretty high-handed even though aim which he has in view may be entirely worthy. If he can convict the Klan leader of crimes against the commonwealth that certainly is within his province, but it is hardly fair to inflict military rule upon a city because one man declines to resign. The community can hardly compel his resignation. The same is true concerning the officers of the law whose resignation he demands. His only recourse would appear to be to convict them in the courts of failure to properly discharge the duties of their offices. If there is violence, meanwhile, he might be justified in putting a city under martial law for putting down, but not to compel resignations.

The military censorship in a newspaper office looks like a dangerous infringement upon the freedom of the press. It goes back to the question of whether there is any real justification for martial law in that city. If there is, the military has a right to suppress whatever interferes with its administration of affairs. It is easy to see, however, how a newspaper might object to the governor's procedure in his inquiries without saying anything which was treasonable. The whole thing is too much like judging a case without trial. When one starts to "fight the devil with fire," a conflagration is likely.

In view of all this, it is gratifying to note that, in response to a request from the Baltimore Sun for a statement of his view on the necessity for the censorship of the Tribune, the governor replied: "There will be no censorship of the press in this state except in cases where newspapers by editorial and through newspaper stories are in fact inciting masked marauders to insurrection against constituted authority." He has also lifted the censorship of the Tribune, in announcing which he said: "I uphold absolutely the freedom of American Press and the right of free people. I have decided that conditions now do not demand military interference with the newspapers." He has, however, issued a proclamation putting the whole state under martial law.

"SALOMY JANE" FILLED WITH NIGHT SCENES OF BEAUTY AND CHARM

Electricity Used to Advantage in Fine New Paramount Production.

Night scenes among the great red-woods of Boulder Creek canyon, Northern California, are one of the attractive spectacles of "Salomy Jane," a Paramount picture, which is showing heavily at the McSwain Theatre this week. These inspiring scenes were made possible by a huge battery of electric arc lights and the achievement is one more step in the advancement of the technique of making motion pictures. Gatherings of the Vigilantes by night, a stage robbery during a midnight storm, rides along roads bordered by black forests—all these are made possible by the use of electric lights.

The George Melford production, "Salomy Jane," is a tale of the romantic days of '49 when the law was crudely meted out by the Vigilantes, an organization of settlers formed to keep the peace.

"The Man," a stranger in Red Dog, falls victim to this primitive justice. He is accused of robbing a stage coach and when about to be led away to be hanged is kissed good-bye by Salomy Jane, an impulsive daughter of a pioneer. The stranger escapes but Red Pete, also charged with the hold-up, is hanged. Returning to thank Salomy for her kiss, the man meets an old enemy, Baldwin, and in the struggle Baldwin is shot by another man in ambush.

Fearing that he may be blamed for Baldwin's death, he attempts to escape by wearing the clothes of Madison Clay, Salomy's father. Larabee, a rough pioneer and an enemy of Clay's, shoots at the man by mistake. In the ensuing fight Larabee is wounded. Dying, he confesses that Baldwin was the stage coach robber. The love romance of the stranger and Salomy ends happily.

Jacqueline Logan plays the role of "Salomy Jane," while George Fawcett takes the part of "Yuba Bill," a stage-coach driver, and Maurice Flynn portrays "The Man."

LONDON.—Quill pens have been abolished at Southwark county court. This breaks a tradition of 150 years, and deprives barristers of an implement of many uses.

Quill pens in skilled hands have been known to be useful for other things than writing. They were waved to drive home arguments. They were flourished to distract attention from some specially obvious flaw in reasoning. Stubborn and timid witnesses often were impressed by a quill twirled in time with the legal twitch of the eyebrows. The last quill pens have been removed from the court and cheaper steel pens substituted.

WARD ATTORNEY CLAIMS BLACKMAIL SECRET FINAL

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Sept. 26.—Isaac N. Mills, arguing for the acquittal of Walter S. Ward today said the secret of the blackmail that caused Ward to kill Clarence Peters would never be revealed. To prevent such disclosure he had refrained from calling members of Ward family to the stand.

MANY are the eyes that are turned to gaze with keen admiration on the well developed, healthy girl no matter where she may be—on the rapidly moving thoroughfare or gliding gracefully over the dance floor.

All eyes turn because we all appreciate the girl with the figure so firm and plump—the girl with radiantly red cheeks, cheeks that carry a touch of roses from nature's own garden—the girl with the sparkling eyes, keen and sharp—the girl with buoyancy and the swing of youth.

Not necessarily an out-of-doors girl. Just a girl with ever increasing blood cells. Just a girl filled with the vim and vigor of youth. S. S. S., since 1826, has stood for increased blood cells. S. S. S. means restored strength—rekindled vitality—added energy. Take S. S. S. and watch the bloom of youth return to your cheeks. Watch that flabby, ill nourished flesh fade away before flesh that is firm and plump. Red blood cells will do it and S. S. S. will build them. It contains only pure vegetable ingredients. S. S. MILES CITY, Mont.—The jaw bones and tusk of a large prehistoric animal were uncovered here recently by a railroad construction crew working with a steam shovel. The tusk is 22 inches in circumference.

The animal had only two teeth, each more than six inches long and three inches wide, with thirteen rows of cutting edges running crosswise on each tooth. A short distance from where the jaw bones and tusk were unearthed, shells of muscles a foot and a half long were found. It is reported.

ITALY AGAIN REAPING HARVEST FROM TOURISTS

ROME—The Italian tourist trade has resumed its pre-war status. Before the war the tourists flocking into Italy from all parts of Europe added 500,000,000 lire, or $109,000,000 at the exchange rate of those days, to the wealth of Italy. In 1922 tourists from all over the world brought 2,000,000,000 lire to Italy which, calculated at the present rate of exchange, would give about the same sum, $109,000,000. Coupled with remittances received from Italian emigrants, mainly in America, this tourist revenue used to be sufficient to balance Italy's adverse trade balance. The emigrant remittances, especially during the present year, show a considerable falling off, probably owing to the restricted immigration system now in force in the United States. In 1922, however, the emigrant remittances equaled their pre-war figure, which was about the same as that of the tourist expenditures.

The falling-off of revenue from the emigrant source has stirred the various commercial organizations to look for the missing income in an extension of the tourist business. At present tourists go over the beaten paths outlined by the travel companies. But that is not all of Italy, say the Italian promoters. While they point to Rome, Naples, Sicily, Florence, Venice and the Italian Alps as being very worthy of tourist patronage, they insist that the regions of the Abruzzi, the Puglie and Romagna are also to be considered as possessing great tourist attractions.

CHINESE DOMINOES NOT GAME OF CHANCE, RULED

(By the Associated Press)

MANILA, Aug. 24.—Mah-Jongg, the great Chinese game of dominoes, is not a game of chance. A competent court of the land has ruled thus, and it is so ordered. The above decision was rendered in a case against Two Tong, Lee Loy, So Chee and Kuong Chang, all Chinese, arrested on the charge of gambling. The case came before Judge Manuel V. Moran, who based his decision on the case of the United States vs. Liong-sin. In his decision, however, Judge Moran regrets the fact that local authorities have not approved any measure regulating the game, as he believes that Mah-Jongg is a game in which fortunes may be won and lost.

Judge Moran makes a lengthy analysis of the game in which he says that while the element of luck plays an important part in the winning of the hand, the game in itself is one of ability rather than luck. He concludes that the element of luck is limited, and as the game advances this element is more and more reduced by the proficiency of the player.

His conclusion that in Mah-Jongg fortunes may be won or lost is based on a story in which it is related that four wealthy Chinese once played the game, wagering a grain of rice for each title. The player playing East Wind, the story

Fled 2,500 Miles to Wed. MEXICO CITY—A 2,500-mile trip, afoot and afloat, ending in marriage, might summarize the feat of Carolyn Cushman Murphy, 15, and Roy Silvestre Wiegand, four years her senior. Both were students at Miami University, Ohio, but fled from that institution last June, according to the bride, because their parents objected to their marriage.

Both have gone to work, Mrs. Wiegand's first adventure in that line being in journalism and her first story a record of her trip on foot and in automobile and side-door Pullman to New Orleans and as extra hand aboard a freighter from New Orleans to Vera Cruz. Her home is in Brooklyn, N. Y.

DOINGS OF THE VAN LOONS—What Father Will Save Won't Fill a Bank.

A FRIEND INDEED

By ADA BORDEN STEVENS

(© 1923, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

ON the doorstep in the starlight Bess turned to her husband.

"We've been gone a whole week, dear. Isn't it lovely coming home to our own little apartment! Do open the door, quick!"

Gus Arkwright looked down at the dearest girl in the world.

"Suppose the scrub woman didn't come? We left in an awful hurry—"

"Gus, how dare you!" Bess ran up stairs and switched on the light.

"Oh, Gus, she didn't! Oh, look! I'll have to clean house all the evening!"

She ran to the head of the stairs and called "Mrs. Bent!" The smooth, gray head of the landlady appeared. "Didn't that woman come, Mrs. Bent? Oh, dear, it is simply frightful up here!"

"No one came, Mrs. Arkwright. Did you have an elegant time away? Don't worry! Mayhap she'll come tomorrow." "But I have to go to the office tomorrow." Just then Gus' voice sounded from the telephone.

"Sure! Just got home. That's all right. Come along. Say, Bess," he grinned, hanging up the receiver, "Bert is bringing two couples out from the house to tea. I'll run down for some bread and things while you cut a swath through the place for them to walk through. We've an hour before they can get here."

By the time Gus returned she had a pan of cakes in the oven and eggs boiled for sandwiches.

When the guests tramped in everything was ready, and Bess, radiant in her blue apron, made the whole affair seem like a lark.

It was a gay evening. With laughter and stories the last of the cakes were eaten and the merry party started toward home.

Bess and Gus were tired. Gus had a pile of papers to prepare. They looked at the debris, and then at each other.

"Some party!" commented Gus, grimly, feeling the reaction. "Vacations are the deuce, anyway! We come home from a fine time and see what we find!" He pushed the tea-tray into the kitchenette and raked the books and papers away from the typewriter.

"It's housekeeping that is the deuce," retorted Bess. "If we weren't housekeeping there wouldn't be all this stuff to clear up!"

"Well, you left it undone, didn't you?"

"Some of it, but the scrub woman—anyway, those boys make an awful mess—"

"Now, hold on. Who was it told them to come any time?" Bess bit her lip. "Well, let's not quarrel on top of a perfectly delightful vacation! I can't sit up another minute. Good night."

Gus was already fitting a sheet of paper into his typewriter. He lifted automatic lips. "You run along, dear," he said, absently. "I'll just hammer out a few lines and then I'll come."

Bess couldn't help her tears. She choked them back as she heard Mrs. Bent at the front door. She went to speak to her. Mrs. Bent's motherly soul went out to her lovely tenant.

"Don't you worry, dear! I'll call up that scrub woman in the morning after you've gone to the office."

In the morning, as he plowed his way between half unpacked suitcases, stacked dishes and misplaced furniture, Gus said:

"It sure is a mess; I say, Bess—"

"Don't, Gus. I can't joke about it. Come on. I'll get off early if I can and set things to rights."

"You get a woman—see?"

Bess had learned not to argue. "All right," she said.

Mrs. Bent hung up the receiver thoughtfully. The scrub woman was ill. She thought of those children upstairs who had chosen to marry while they both were working. How happy they were, usually! She looked at the key in her hand, and then at the stairs. "I've a good mind to," she said aloud, "and their mothers so far away." She took her own broom up the stairs with her, and stayed a long time.

On the way home Bess smothered a sigh. She wished she was not so tired! There was no one in sight as she entered the street door. She stopped to light the gas heater which furnished hot water for both apartments. It would need a lot of those dishes! Then she ran up to her rooms and opened the door.

"Oh! Oh! She came after all!" Bess went eagerly from room to room. "She never made things so neat before. I'll run down and turn off that gas." At the foot of the stairs she nearly collided with her landlady. "Oh, Mrs. Bent, I'm so glad that woman came. How much did you pay her?"

Mrs. Bent had not thought of this. She could not take money for her labor of love. "I didn't pay her a cent, my dear."

"But, Mrs. Bent, I never heard of such a thing. Oh—oh—could—oh, Mrs. Bent, I believe you did it yourself!" The old face was telltale, and Bess seized both capable hands.

"You good Samaritan, I'll never forget it in this world! And I'll never go off again and leave so much for someone else to do."

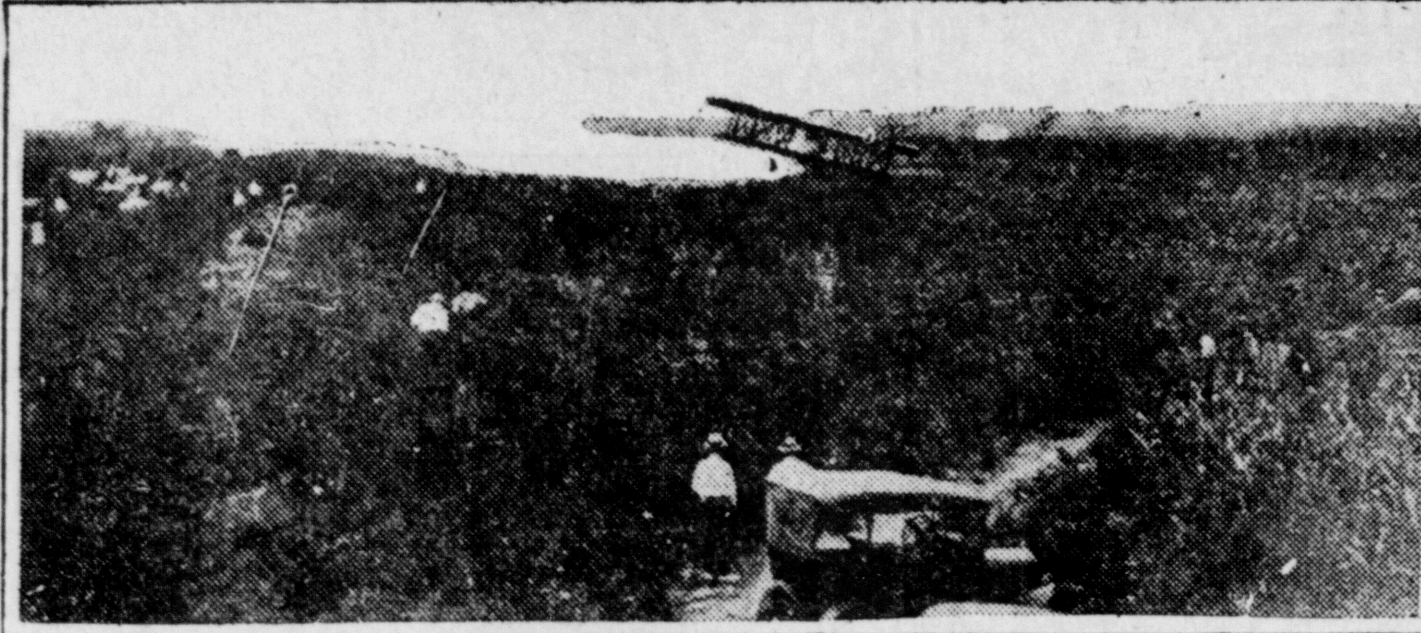

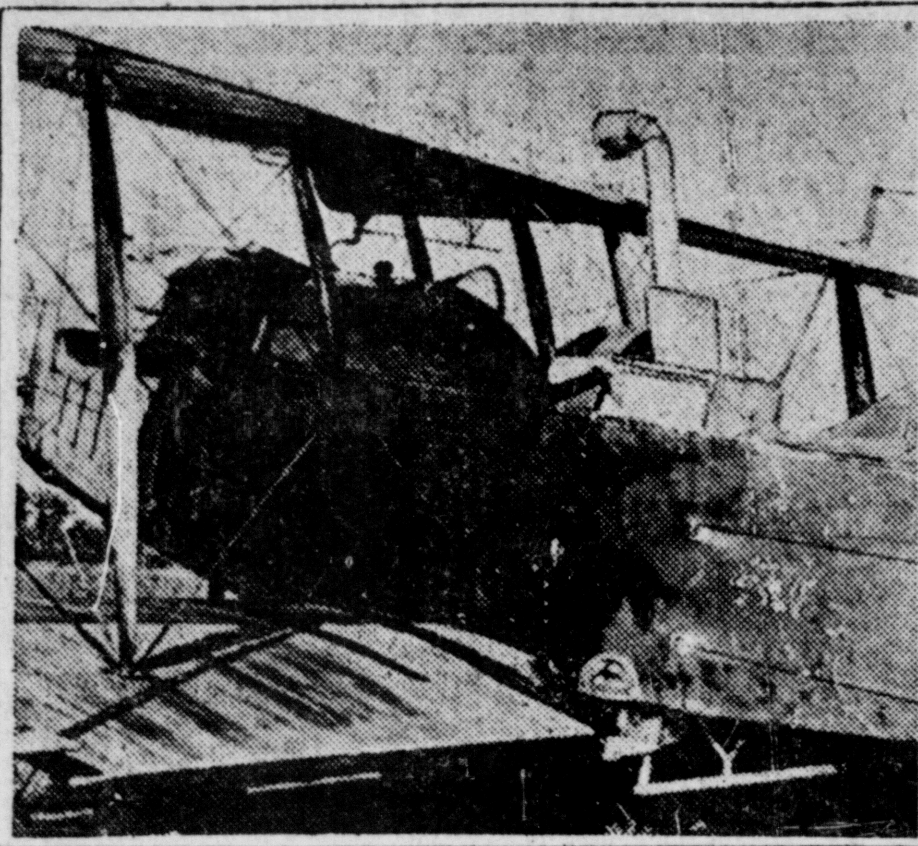

Mrs. Bent beamed. "Go on, my dear! It was for your mother I did it. Go now and make yourself pretty for your man when he comes home."

PLANES DROP DESTRUCTION ON BOLL WEEVIL

The army air service is doing much to aid in the fight on the dreaded boll weevil, which annually destroys millions in cotton crops throughout the south. Airplanes equipped with special apparatus for discharging a poisonous dust fly at a low level over the cotton fields. The dust, specially prepared, is poisonous to the boll weevil but in no way harms the cotton plant itself. Settling low over the ground, the dust exterminates the weevil. The process is being perfected by the army planes near Tallulah, La.

The planes are equipped with with air suction hoppers which discharge the pest eradicating powder. The fine spray settles over the cotton plants and onto the ground. One plane is able to spray a great acreage daily. The southern planters believe the new system will do much to reduce the boll weevil evil.

Ada Amateurs Win After Williams Hurls One-Hit Game Against Visitors

Lefty Williams hurred a one-hit game in the third of a three-game series here Tuesday afternoon at the new park and the Ada tribe won with the final counting of tallies at 3-0.

While his pitching was the feature of the game, Williams singular performance on the mound was overshadowed by a total of nine free bases, eight walks and one base on batter hit by pitched ball. Williams, however, tightened up in pinches and held the visitors scoreless.

Walker and Vernon, twirlers for the visitors could not stem the tide of Ada swatters when the slugfest started in the sixth inning. Walker, who pitched six innings of the game, grew wild in the seventh when he walked three men, one of them counting for a run and then pitching wild to Terry for another run of the total.

Blankenship and Page gathered batting honors for the game, a double and single being secured by both batters. Rutledge rapped the boards for a double. English was the only visitor to find Williams' delivery a double being the snare of hitting honors enjoyed by the visitors.

Williams struck out eleven batters to face him, permitted eight walks, one base on hit batter and allowed only one hit. Walker struck one stick welder, permitted five walks and allowed seven hits. Vernon struck out two batters, permitted one base on balls and allowed no hits during his two innings on the mound.

The game Tuesday paved the way for the close of the baseball season here. The local club is slated for one other game during the season, the Durant club being scheduled for a game here next Sunday.

Plan Mica Survey in Kamchatka.

(By the Associated Press)
VLADIVOSTOK, Siberia.—The Dal-torg (the Department of Trade in the Far East) has decided to open up the mica mines of Kamchatka, having learned from its agents abroad that there is demand for mica in America and that prices are high. A meeting of mine owners was called and the Dal-torg agreed to finance an expedition for the survey of the deposits. Large deposits exist in the peninsula where the natives use mica for window panes, and while some mines have been registered they have not been worked owing to the low prices prevailing.

LOOSE BALL NEW STYLE FOR YOST

Michigan Mentor Lining His Wolverines on Picking Up Stray Pigskins

(By the Associated Press)
ANN ARBOR, Mich., Sept. 22.—Michigan is preparing to play what is technically known as the "loose ball" game of football if the practice of the first two weeks is any indication of the style of game the followers of the veteran coach Yost will present on the field. No Michigan eleven in the days of Yost has had the practice in handling a ball in all positions that the present eleven has received in the comparatively short time it has been at work.

Yost has been known for years as a conservative, as a man who "played the game safe." Asked if he expected to assume a different style of game if the opposition afforded him the loose bounding ball, the veteran mentor replied that his team would play the game as they found it, loose ball game, kicking game, running game, any way to advance the pigskin.

As far as practice indicates, however, the slogan, "Fall on the ball" is a lost command on Perry Field. While some slight practice is being given in the art of leaping through space and completely smothering the body so the ball may be seized and the player roll to his feet ready for a dash goal-wards. To perfect the backs and ends in this department they are lined up ten feet apart and a back must catch the rolling ball, and recover his feet.

The men also are being trained at picking up a ball while running at full speed, and to gather up without stopping a ball bounding from the ground.

Added to this game with a loose ball, the squad is being intensively drilled in the catching of forward passes.

Yost's 1923 squad, which in its practice thus far has combined nimbleness of foot, fingers and mental facilities may be in part responsible for the appearance that the Wolverine football team is turning from the conservative to loose ball game but the practice indicates members of Yost's squad will know what to do with a bounding ball. If some opponent or some companion happens to be luckless enough to allow the spheroid to slip through the fingers.

From Soldiers' Home.
Ardmore, Okla., Sept. 23, 1923. To the 100 percent Americans of Ada, Okla.:

This is a tribute from every Confederate soldier that attended the reunion. We were pleased for we were among our friends. This was the material that the Confederate army was composed of. The absence of negroes and foreign element was most conspicuous. We greatly appreciated the good old Southern sympathy shown us. We hope you will keep your town clear of the foreign element, except the English speaking people.

We are speaking for the soldiers home and all who attended from Ardmore. May your flag wave long and gloriously as it did from September 19 to 21.

Cordially yours,
Richard L. Rogers, Co. A. 39th N. C.
Jim West, Texas.

While crops are late and money is slow, there has been no delay in the arrival of fall dresses.

It was a hot day up near the Oklahoma City front. The regiment had been ordered for active duty and for more than an hour a soldier had been trying to get another mule in a box car for transportation to Oklahoma City. A chaplain came along and began to laugh at the soldier's discomfiture. The poor soldier turned as he wiped the perspiration from his brow said:

"Chaplain, now did Noah ever get all this stubborn animal in the ark?"

Where one spends the summer generally depends on what one has to spend but where one spends the winter depends on how long his job lasts.

This is the time of year when gardeners are fearing frosts.

Maybe the reason so many of these boys are named "Bill" is because they come on the first of the month.

The trouble with Governor Walton's fight program is that he has not signed up with Kearns as his promoter.

Local school authorities report a general trend to matrimony in their student enrollment but most girls elope when they get to agriculture.

Th aging mother of little Mary would not send out her wrath on the head of the schools of Ada but she does feel that she has not received full value from 312 boxes of colored crayon she has purchased so far this year.
